MISES University

July 31–Aug. 6, 2005 ■ Auburn, Alabama

COME DEEPEN YOUR KNOWLEDGE of the Austrian School, or discover it for the first time, at the 20th annual Mises University summer program. The entire program will take place at the Mises Institute in Auburn, Alabama. The Mises University is the world's leading instructional program in the Austrian School of economics. Since 1986, it has been the essential training ground for economists who are looking beyond the mainstream. The program offers courses, seminars, and reading groups on the whole range of the discipline. The curriculum presents economic foundations, and more than 50 elective classes explore the entire range of economics, at all levels.

Subject areas cover market behavior, competition, value and utility, money and banking, business cycles, industrial organization, method, economic history, the philosophy of science, financial economics, and more. There's even a primer on surviving graduate school. You attend the sessions that most suit your interests and level of advancement. Nightly social hours allow time to meet and discuss it all with faculty and other students. The program ends with an optional exam for an honors certificate. Details are available at mises.org/upcoming.asp.

Full-time students can apply now at mises.org/studentschol.asp to receive a scholarship covering full tuition, meals, study materials, and housing. Faculty may also attend, and there are a limited number of Member Observer places. See mises.org for registration details.
