

Study Mises and Rothbard AT THE MISES INSTITUTE

Human Action SEMINAR June 2-8, 2002 • Auburn, AL

Faculty:

David Gordon, Mises Review
Jeffrey M. Herbener, Grove City College
Hans-Hermann Hoppe, University of Nevada, Las Vegas
Jörg Guido Hülsmann, Mises Institute
Peter Klein, University of Georgia
George Reisman, Pepperdine University
Joseph T. Salerno, Pace University
Mark Thornton, Columbus State University

Info: The text is the Scholar's Edition of Ludwig von Mises's Human Action, which all participants will have read in advance. Lectures and discussions take participants through the entire text, with applications to the whole range of economic theory, history, method, and policy. The seminar is limited to 20 outstanding students, with preference given to graduate students in economics, especially those who have attended the Mises University. Those selected to attend receive a full scholarship, including a copy of Human Action, additional study materials, room, meals, and transportation between the Atlanta airport and Auburn, and will enjoy full access to the Mises campus. Limited travel assistance is also available.

To apply: Send a letter asking to attend, along with letters of recommendation and unofficial transcripts to the address below. Deadline: April 8, 2002 (The conference is likely to fill up long before.)

Faculty:

Walter Block, Loyola University, New Orleans
David Gordon, Mises Review
Hans-Hermann Hoppe, University of Nevada, Las Vegas
Jörg Guido Hülsmann, Mises Institute
Stephan N. Kinsella, Applied Optoelectronics
Roderick Long, Auburn University
Ralph Raico, Buffalo State College
Joseph T. Salerno, Pace University
Mark Thornton, Columbus State University

Info: This seminar, designed for graduate students from a variety of disciplines, is devoted to examining the contributions of Murray N. Rothbard, one of the great creative forces in the history of libertarian ideas.

The text for this conference is Rothbard's The Ethics of Liberty. First published in 1982, and recently republished with an introduction by Hans-Hermann Hoppe, this book has had a huge influence in forging the new libertarian intellectual movement. Rothbard examines how a stateless society handles problems of law, punishment, culture, immigration, institutions, and much more. The book has been translated and published in many languages.

To apply: Fill out the Student Scholarship Application at www.mises.org/studentschol.asp. Deadline: July 1, 2002 (The conference is likely to fill up long before.)

Rothbard GRADUATE SEMINAR

July 28–August 2, 2002
AUBURN, ALABAMA

MISES INSTITUTE

518 West Magnolia Ave.
Auburn, Ala. 36832-4528
Phone 800-636-4737
Email pat@mises.org

See www.mises.org/upcoming.asp for information on:

- History of Liberty Seminar, May 26–31, 2002
- Mises University, August 4–10, 2002

MISES INSTITUTE

518 West Magnolia Ave.
Auburn, Ala. 36832-4528

Please post!

Summer seminars at the Mises Institute . . .

